HOW OFTEN AND HOW LONG?

The number and frequency of treatments depends on the severity and length of time you have had the problem. You should plan on at least two to three treatments, one week to one month apart. Biweekly sessions might be required for more severe illnesses. More is not always better since the goal is to increase awareness and to stimulate the body to heal itself, not take over the body's self-regulation

The first visit lasts 2-3 hours, follow-up visits last about an hour..

THE MEDICINE OF THE FUTURE

The QXCI medical device is an evoked potential Biofeedback / TENS (transcutaneous electrical nerve stimulation) device which sends signals to the body then listens to the body's subtle responses. Its elaborate computer program is designed to stimulate conscious awareness of unconscious processes and bring the body into normal response. Your conscious mind may not be aware of it but your body has an unconscious regulatory system which is "aware of" the initial interference in flow of electrical and chemical energies in the body. By creating a body-to-machine then back-to-the-body connection between the conscious mind and its unconscious regulatory systems, we can begin to listen to and identify the blockages within the body's vital flow. Thus we can get clues about the things that tend to disrupt the energy systems which maintain the body's health.

TENS—A CYBERNETIC LINK

With the TENS capacity of the QXCI device we can use a cybernetic (body-to-machine) link to begin to deal with the subtle causes of disease. The device has very sophisticated and complex programs which can positively "entrain" the subconscious regulatory systems to move reactions more in the direction of healthy patterns. Thus it can encourage the body to fight infections, stimulate detoxification, desensitize the body to allergens as well as to normalize the emotional associations to that allergen, stimulate repair of injuries, relax spasms, reduce stress by balancing the sympathetic and parasympathetic nervous systems, retrain the brain to function more effectively after injury, correct mild pH imbalances and neurochemical (brain chemical) imbalances, and reduce abnormal sensations of pain.

WHAT IT CAN DO

The QXCI can detect faults in the acupuncture meridian flow and correct them. It can sense flaws in the energetic field around the body (the "aura") and correct them. It can find imbalances in the brain wave pattern and electrical heart patterns and subtly correct them as well. Finally the system can help in finding ways to reduce symptoms through other naturopathic means such as homeopathy, nutrition, counseling (NLP), etc. The QXCI is capable of designing and producing homeopathic remedies specifically designed for the individual.

The primary goal of this system is to stimulate the body to heal itself. True healing and long term symptom reduction is the result.

WILL I FEEL IT?

Some patients are more aware of their unconscious than others. These patients are likely to actually feel the QXCI device and recognize the reaction patterns more easily. Others will take more time, but after several visits they will become more aware of their "Unconscious" and feel the effects more. What is more important is that you feel better!
